1901 RAYMOND'S GOLDEN JUBILEE 1951

*Our town will celebrate its fiftieth birthday on July 1st of this year
Plan now to do your part in making the celebration a success*

THE RAYMOND LION

This next week is election week. A completely new slate of officers will be chosen next Monday at the regular meeting at seven-thirty. The present executive has done very well with the Lions affairs. The whole club feels that this has been one of our best years.

With the responsibility of the job hanging over one, I had better review Lion's principles, check our own motives, and our own limitations and qualifications—then get on the ball and go to work. A week or two ago I reviewed the history, very briefly, of Lions origin. I should now like to tell you how our Code of Ethics came into practice.

Since the decision to call the confederation of service club the International Association of Lions Clubs, there had been many delegates determined to change the name and set up a set of rules peculiar to their own clubs. It did not work—many clubs refused to join on that account. Melvin Jones knew what must be, and stuck to his guns to effect the kind of Service Club he had dreamed about building. A Texan, G.M. Cunningham was appointed to head a committee to draw up a Code of Ethics. They came up with a magnificent document for the Convention in 1918. The International Conventions, that and the next year, spent many days on the proposed. They finally emerged with our present Code of Ethics and adopted it in 1919. It is a marvelous document and has never been changed from that day to this.

Here, as it has been handed down from the beginning, is the text of it: "To show my faith in the worthiness of my vocation by industrious application, to the end that I may merit a reputation for the quality of service;

"To seek success and demand all fair remuneration or profit as my just due, but to accept no profit or success at the price of my own self respect lost because of unfair advantage taken or because of questionable acts on my part.

"To remember that in building up my business it is not necessary to tear down another's; to be loyal to my clients or customers and true to myself.

"Whenever a doubt arises as to the right or ethics of my position or action towards my fellowmen, to resolve such doubt against myself.

"To hold friendship as an end and not a means. To hold that true friendship exists not on account of the service performed by one to another, but that true friendship demands nothing, but accepts service in the spirit in which it is given.

"Always bear in mind my obligation as a citizen to my nation, my state and my own community and to give to them my unswerving loyalty in word, act, and deed; to give them freely of my time, labor and means.

"To aid my fellow men by giving my sympathy to those in distress, my aid to the weak, and my substance to the needy.

"To be careful with my criticisms and liberal with my praise; to build up and not to destroy."

Jones has always held the fourth as the crux of Lionism. He says, "This verse means to value friends not for what they can get out of them but for what they are—and this Code which is for the individual Lion, has gone a long way toward making Lions International first among the service organizations of the World."

Mrs. Cleese Sweltzer of Lethbridge accompanied her sister Mrs. N. E. Hirsche to Raymond last Tuesday for a short visit. On Wednesday they visited relatives and friends in Stirling.

Mrs. Geo. Swedish has returned from a week long visit in Calgary.

Diane Watson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Watson celebrated her 5th birthday with a Birthday party Thursday afternoon.

Golden Anniversary

Question: What induced "Uncle Jesse" to come to Canada in the first place?

Answer: Jesse Knight was a very wealthy man, he was also a very kind and generous man and his great desire was to serve humanity. While he was pondering where he could best invest some of his wealth, Apostle John W. Taylor and Chas. McCarthy who were then living in Alberta went to Jesse Knight telling him about the abundance of grass and the rich land in this part of the country and urged him to invest some of his wealth here.

This proposition appealed to him and in January 1901 his two sons Oscar Raymond and Jesse William came to look the country over. Their report to their father was good and soon Jesse Knight had purchased 30,000 acres of land near Spring Coulee which was later called K-2 Ranch.

Question: When was the land here in Raymond dedicated for the Sugar Factory?

Answer: In the forenoon of August 11th, 1909 by Apostle John H. Taylor.

Question: When was the townsite dedicated?

Answer: At three o'clock in the afternoon of the same day, August 11th Apostle John W. Taylor, Elders Jesse Knight, Geo. H. Brunhall, Chas. McCarthy and about 50 others from Magrath and Sterling gathered on the bare prairie around a huge buffalo skull and listened to Pres. Ora Card dedicate the townsite.

Ray Knight offered the benediction in this historic meeting.

Question: What did they name the town?

Answer: Raymond, after Uncle Jesse's oldest son. That was easy, wasn't it?

Question: Who built the first building?

Answer: Ephraim B. Hicks built a lean-to just West of Mrs. Will Meeks present home, where he was busy sharpening plow shares for the men who were plowing Uncle Jesse's land.

Question: Who built the first house in Raymond?

Answer: F. B. Rolfsen. He, his wife and two little children Ray and Basil moved in it in September, but it was not quite finished. There were no doors or windows and the stove pipe had to stick out of the window opening and a quilt served as a door, but they were glad to get out of a tent and into a house as tent life was cold and miserable. Mrs. Rolfsen lived in Stirling before coming to Raymond.

Question: Who was the first family to come here?

Answer: Geo. C. Munns and family.

Question: Who was the second family?

Answer: Wm. Lamb, his wife and little son Floyd.

Question: And the Third?

Answer: Hannah Gibb and nine children.

Subsidies

Alberta Wheat Pool Budget, April 20, 1951.

The turmoil which has been raised in Eastern Canada over the $65 million Federal grant to the Wheat Board to make a final payment of 8.3¢ a bushel for wheat in the 1945-49 pool, is, and should be, resented in Western Canada. One would think that the Western wheat farmers were mendicants and they alone of all classes in Canada received special treatment. That is far from the case.

H. H. Hannam, President of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, has listed some Federal Government subsidy payments made to groups and industries other than farmers, in the 1949-50 fiscal year as follows:

Subsidy for Canadian gold mines	$13,715,778
Subsidy on movement of coal	$3,919,000
Subsidy on steel and iron	$4,662,251
For unemployment insurance	$45,059,588
Subsidy for judges' (114) pensions	$458,937

Then special depreciation on $514 million invested was allowed war industry during World War 2.

The Canadian tariff in itself operates in the nature of a bonus to Canadian industries and is oppressive particularly to people residing in the prairie provinces of Western Canada. In the early 1930's the late Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor in the Canadian government prepared a table showing how each province in Canada was affected by the Dominion's tariff policy.

That table showed that at that time the Canadian tariffs cost the people of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta $54,925,000 a year, or an annual average charge of $23.00 on every man woman and child in the three provinces. With the expansion of Canadian industry and western purchasing, the figures may now be doubled.

The table also showed that the provinces of Ontario and Quebec had an annual gain through the tariff of $33.7 million.

The $65 million grant by the Federal Government to the Wheat Board permits a payment of 4½¢ a bushel on 1,436 million bushels of wheat delivered by the farmers of Western Canada between 1945 and 1949 inclusive. It brings the total payment up to a little over $1.83 a bushel, basis 1 Northern at the terminal, on total deliveries.

Between March 1, 1945, and February 17, 1947, the Wheat Board sold 160 million bushels of wheat for domestic consumption at $1.25 a bushel when the export price was $1.55.

Just Penning Thanks

Fame smiles benevolently on Ye Olde Halls of Learning. Last week at the Musical Festival students from the RHS walked away with 21 first and 16 second prizes. These trophies were captured from nearly every enterable field. The Holmes twins came first in their duet class, Laveda Larsen captured first in the Open Elocution class, Laurie Harker won first in the Tenor class, the mixed chorus came second, and many many more honors were bestowed. A huge "Thank You and Congratulations" to the kids and their very capable instructors.

The Junior Prom is coming up, and the selecting of a High School Queen. Lois Clifton, Margaret Stone, Arlene Taylor and Barbara Wing are competing. With all these beauties, who knows which one to choose?

Track Meet soon, too. Some students are really practising.

Heard a noise in the Hi Times. It sounded like Censored. Should be a Hi Times soon???

Mr. and Mrs. Hal Petersen of Ogden, Utah were recent visitors in town at the homes of N. W. Petersen and J. L. Larson.

Executive Elected At MIA Banquet

About one hundred and twenty-five Junior and Senior M Men and Gleaners from the Taylor Stake sat down to a delicious banquet Friday evening. The tables, charmingly decorated in the Spring Motif, had pretty nosegays and baskets of flowers carrying out the theme. The retiring Gleaner Presidency, Janet Turner, Norma Dahl and Ladine McBride, were in charge of these decorations.

Bill Nalder was M. C. for the program consisting of Skits and humorous songs introducing the Candidates to fill the various positions.

Eugene Dahl was elected Chairman and Kay Cook as M Men Counselor and Mona Palmer as Gleaner Counselor. The Jr. Gleaners elected Barbara Wing as President and the Jr. M Men Duane Attwood, President.

The remainder of the gala evening was spent in dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Johnson and three children who have been living here for about a year, moved to Yak, B. C. on Monday.

Notice to Citizens of Raymond

All citizens whose homes are on the route of the new highway, that is, along 2nd Street North between 4th Street West and 4th Street East, will be required to furnish their own culverts for private entrances. These culverts will meet Government specifications of not less than 18 inches in diameter.

Group purchases may be arranged through your Town Office.

Debris Or Not Debris

My old felt fedora is definitely doctored to that remarkable organization, the AMA. Right smack in the middle of this week's down pour I found myself, and car out on 21st Street South in Lethbridge, stuck tighter than a Scotsman's purse strings, wet as a baby's bottom after the fourth bottle, and as out of place as Dillinger's ghost at a G-Man Convention.

Half drowned, and colder than a banker's heart I made my moist way to the nearest phone. The lady of the house handed me a towel and herded me to the bathroom. My clothes looked as tho they had been thrown on with a pitchfork—my hair hung in strings, and my shoes squished dismally at every step—In fact, I was all wet. With the towel I proceeded to take care of the little drips, then dialed an AMA garage. Before the pool of water was over a foot square the truck pulled in and proceeded to get stuck right in front of my car. Were the AMA fooled? Don't underestimate them. From the Park Service came a Jeep with power in all four wheels and pulled out the car, while truck number one struggled out on its own power. All this service for the sum of one dollar and twenty-five cents, and believe it or not the AMA paid that too.

Yep! for $12.50 per year my wife and I are insured with an insurance that increases each year. Besides this we are endowed with countless privileges and assured of prompt and courteous service. We're all for the AMA.

(You can sign up with the AMA at Melchin Motors. See them today.)

Mildred Wilde a demure little Miss, just back from the U of A received last Sunday a very satisfactory kiss by proxy. In the absence of the boyfriend, who incidentally is in search of LDS converts in Eastern Canada, his father took over and did a remarkably adequate job of bussing the lady. I always maintained that being a father must have some compensating features. From this day on I'm corresponding faithfully with the missionaries who have sweethearts at home. Perhaps I can do a bit of their work by proxy. Who said it was work?

The name was in last week's column but all the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Loran Nelson wish them much happiness on their Silver Wedding Anniversary just passed. Two very nice people who have managed to survive twenty-five years of marital blitz.

Overheard a conversation the other day that went something like this:—Eldon Peterson: Say, when are you going to join the Army?

John Wolsey: Why they wouldn't have me in the Army, I'm medically unfit.

Eldon: What makes you medically unfit?

John: No guts!

Eldon then admitted that he was a 4-B himself; bald, bilious, bay-windowed and bi-focaled.

The Busy Bee Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Vera Dawley. Eleven members were present and the evening was spent in quilting.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Meldrum had as their guests on Tuesday evening and Wednesday of last week, Art McLennan, a former member of the Treasury Branch Staff, and his aunt, Miss Rose Stevenson of Great Falls. Art enjoyed renewing acquaintances again. He also visited with Kay, Faye and Ray Depew out at their farm. Art and Kay were on the Treasury Branch Staff together.

Art is in the United States Air Force and was on his way to his parents home at Vulcan for a few days before being sent to a large Air Force Base in Southern Georgia.

Comrades Column

First of all I wish to inform you readers that there is much more doing in the Legion than you read about in this column.

Those of you who have had occasion to visit the Hall during the past ten days will like the new finish on the floor we are sure.

The big event in Provincial Legion affairs will take place in Lethbridge next month. The Provincial Bi-Annual Convention will be held there June 17-23. At this time 600 Comrades are expected to converge on the City. Our Branch is allowed one delegate, who will be chosen at our next meeting which incidentally will be held on May 9th, Wednesday to be exact. All veterans, members or not, are urged to attend.

Speaking of members, our membership is still far below its objective. The latest list stands at about thirty. New members are signing on regularly and interest seems to be growing.

Attention golfers—Legion members now have on sale 25¢ chances on a beautiful $100.00 set of golfing equipment. This is a set any golfer or non-golfer would be proud to have parked behind the closet door or doubly proud to be seen with on the fairway. It is on display in the Mercantile show window.

We for one were glad to hear that the town had decided to enforce the Highway Traffic Board Regulations within our town limits. Something we have needed for years. Accidents will happen but are much less likely to when all rules and regulations are followed. Raymond is growing; traffic is increasing. The next move should be to number our streets and houses. Speaking of traffic, I dare say that if things become much worse it won't be long until the town Marshall is seen walking around with a piece of chalk on the end of a stick.

Capitol Theatre News

A mighty motion picture is being presented at the Capitol Theatre next Tuesday and Wednesday. It stars Walter Pidgeon and Greer Garson and is without a doubt their production. No doubt many will recall it, having seen this several years ago. It is called Blossoms in the Dust and is presented in glowing heartwarming technicolor. Be sure and see this grand show as critics now call it the most beautiful motion picture ever filmed.

Next Thursday Hedy Lamarr and John Hodiak are appearing in The Lady Without A Passport. It is one of those fascinating stories that the average theatre goer will enjoy and appreciate.

Friday and Saturday of next week that popular star Cary Grant is cavorting in the screens most hilarious comedy; it is gay and heartwarming. It is rated as the greatest movie treat of all time. It is the only picture to play the Capitol Theatre in Calgary for a solid three week run. Do not miss this as it is loaded with all the entertainment you ever panted to see in photoplay and its all in I Was A Male Warbird.

The long awaited "Mrs. Mike" is on the way. Watch for the dates for this never to be forgotten Canadian drama

 Serving one of Canada's richest irrigated mixed farming districts.

We are really getting hard-surface! "We've been here a long time and they all know we are here, why advertise?"

It seems as though people are the same the world over. By changing the names and the amounts in the following editorial we might find our local situation staring us in the face.

The editorial was "borrowed" from The Weekly Herald, a paper edited by my uncle, Charles F. Hamilton of Essexville, Mich., who has more time (as well as more talent) than "Ye Ed" when it comes to doing a writing job.

Mail order business in postal money orders alone in one town in this area of around 3000 population, totaled over $18,000 in March of this year.

Someone in one of the National Mail order group estimated that their orders in Michigan are good for $50, per person per year. If that is true, a small city like Essexville and adjoining Hampton township would do upwards of a quarter of a million dollars in mail order business as a minimum with that one firm, which is as much as would be done by three small businesses operating on a local level—employing probably two or three clerks and paying local taxes.

What is the situation? Are local prices too high? Do outstate merchants fail in carrying stock wanted by the average householder? Is the service offered not up to par?

Our own answer to these questions is an emphatic no. What then is the reason for the vast mail order business? In part the answer is: The big fellow glorifies his product by persistently and consistently telling of it to the buying public through the news paper, radio and catalogues, while the merchants at home philosophy is,

Then the public is strange in its outlook—the unknown seems to appeal to them. They may have to have the garment altered after it is purchased and it may not please them otherwise but they continue to buy and then when credit is needed they "See Good Old John".

"Good Old John" extends credit and ties up his capital for from one month to a year, sending monthly statements at a cost to him not included in the original marked price and is apt to be low in purchasing power so his stock runs low and the very lad who bought of him on time says, "There is nothing to choose from in John's stock." "John" helped paint the church, buy dishes for the Ladies Aid Society and tickets galore to suppers, shows and the like, but is forgotten as the fellow townsmen or country-man sends his money out of town—in advance of the receipt of the goods.

The mail order crowd are not interested in the fact that father was out of work and the youngsters need shoes for school, nor whether the Sunday School seats are replaced with new—that is not a part of their system—they sell goods with the money on the line before they are shipped.

The problem is a dual one—loyalty to home trade by the buyer and a more intelligent approach to the problem of merchandising by the seller.

Maybe that is where the home town paper comes in and yet if it is too dynamic in expressing a point of view it is charged with selfishness so the cycle goes on and on but a good motto is still the old one "See the Home Merchant First."

IMPORTANT PICTURE FOR CANADIANS!

When the "Imperial Leduc" steamed into Sarnia the other day she made important news for all Canadians and particularly for those who live in the prairie provinces.

The ship herself was news—the world's largest lake tanker on her maiden voyage. Even greater news was her cargo—the first shipment of Alberta oil into the Ontario market.

This new outlet for western crude means price savings of more than $5 millions here in the prairies this year. Altogether, people in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba are now paying $55 millions a year less for oil products than if the new oil fields hadn't been found. That works out to an average saving of more than $80 for every family.

The larger market will increase Canada's oil production by almost one-half. Forty million dollars formerly spent for foreign oil will be available for other purposes. And of special importance it makes Canada surer of oil supplies in peace or war.

Arrival of the "Imperial Leduc" at Sarnia begins a new chapter in the story of Canada's economic development—a development which is making the nation more prosperous and more secure.

That was a direct subsidy by the wheat producers to Canadian consumers to the extent of $48 million.

The prairie provinces of Western Canada constitute a land area of 452 acres, of which 117 million are in occupied farms, 65 million acres being improved lands. This is one of the most productive farming regions in the world.

During the war this area produced nearly 5½ billion bushels of grain, over 5 billion pounds of beef, and 8.6 billion pounds of pork. This production resulted in Canadian people being the best-fed in the world, and also provided 3.1 billion pounds of pork and 600 million pounds of beef for export to Great Britain.

While Canada has experienced a growing industrialism, which strengthens the nation's economic fabric, agricultural production is still the mainstay of the national economy. The farmers of Western Canada, under the constant risk of drought, hail and insect pests, have rendered an exceptional contribution to the progress of the Canadian nation. "Without a West" Canada would not be much of a nation.
